

BIOMEDICAL STUDY SKILLS ENROLMENT - INFORMATION

The Biomedical Study Skills subject is an enabling subject for all other degree subjects and as such, should be undertaken within the first group of subjects in which a student enrolls.

Failure to do so will inhibit subsequent enrolment into Second Year subjects, as Biomedical Study skills is a prerequisite for every subject at that year level for all SSNT degree courses.

Semester 1 Enrolment:

When undertaken in Semester 1 as part of the full-time program, Biomedical Study Skills is a co-requisite for any other subject taken in that semester. Part-time students should ideally take Biomedical Study Skills as one of the first subjects in which they enrol. Where this is not practicable, the student must enrol in the subject during the next semester in which it is offered.

Semester 2 Enrolment:

First year students who enrol at mid-year, and find that this subject is unavailable, are permitted to enrol in the first year subjects of their choice but must enrol in Biomedical Study Skills in Semester 1 of the following year.
